Hand sanitizer that smells like a spa, not a distillery

I tote hand sanitizer—referred to in our house as "goo"—pretty much everywhere. I'm not a germaphobe, but we do seem to have recurring interactions with petting zoos and gross gas station restrooms.

I'm not picky about my hand sanitizer brands—I thought they were all the same. But no, my friends, turns out they are not. Fraiss hand sanitizer is vegan, cruelty-free, completely recyclable and made using earth-friendly sugarcane alcohol and 100% natural essential oils. And it smells amazing—a blend of scents like tangerine, grapefruit, ginger and lemon myrtle.

Seriously, this stuff is awesome. I'm going to be using it so much I'll fit right in with the germaphobes. -Rita
