

Natural Prevention to Tackle Swine Flu »

JUL 17, 2009

Medical Swine Flu experts claim the virus could take up to 65,000 lives this year as cases rise. Prevention is the best way forward to avoid a pandemic; we find a cult product that is both natural and effective.

Chief Medical Doctor warned yesterday that up to 65,000 lives may be lost to Swine Flu. While this is still just a prediction, with children as an 'at risk' group, as a mother I went in search of an effective and natural hand gel to prevent the spread of Swine Flu. Heralded as a cult product by the experts, we think the Frais Hand Sanitizer could be the answer for those of us who want to do our best to avoid the flu but also want to avoid a chemical dose as well. Frais is a natural, non toxic hand gel that "according to the Centre for Disease control and The Mayo Clinic, kills 99.9% of germs encountered in everyday life, including influenza, the common cold, MRSA and many others."

We also highly recommend sneezing and coughing into your elbow, and not your hands, as this will spread the virus further.

Buy Frais Hand Sanitizer now...

An advertisement for 'ecocentric for your ethical lifestyle'. The top part features the brand name 'ecocentric' in a green, lowercase font, with a small green house icon to the left. Below it, the tagline 'for your ethical lifestyle' is written in a smaller, green font. The background is a light green and white pattern of concentric circles and a grid. A large, stylized hand is shown holding a green leaf. At the bottom, there are several small bottles of different colors (brown, white, green, black, white) on a white surface. Below the bottles, the text 'eco homewares &amp; gifts' is written in a green, lowercase font.
